

Year 2011 Country Canada Genre Documentary Length 1:20 Director Charles Wilkinson Writer Charles Wilkinson

Synopsis

This award winning documentary on the costs of energy extraction in North Western Canada is a long, hard look at our technological affluence and its price. We hear from climate change experts, energy policy scholars and business professionals. This is a generously inquisitive film, made with an open mind and a fierce sense of commitment. It's these two qualities that combine to make its conclusion so powerfully convincing.