Long Synopsis

"A Side of Rice" is a deeply personal feature-length documentary that follows the life and career of Nick Rice, a screen and stage veteran with over 50 years in the business. As Nick prepares for his one-man autobiographical stage show, the documentary takes the audience on a heartfelt journey through the pivotal moments that shaped his life and career.

We explore Nick's childhood in Winnipeg, where he first discovered his passion for acting, and dive into his personal reflections on how his love for the stage was born. Through intimate interviews and behind-the-scenes footage, Nick shares how the highs and lows of his life offstage have impacted his performances. His relationship with his mother, who was both a source of strength and conflict, plays a central role in shaping his path as an artist.

One of the most emotional parts of Nick's story is his experience with grief and loss. The film covers the heart-wrenching moment when he lost his first child and the profound joy that came with the birth of his second. Balancing the weight of these personal tragedies with the demands of a lifelong career on the stage reveals the resilience and emotional depth Nick brings to his work.

The documentary also sheds light on the broader themes of creative happiness—how the pursuit of a fulfilling career in the arts often comes with its own unique set of challenges. From navigating the struggles of maintaining a career in the volatile world of acting to celebrating the small victories that keep him going, "A Side of Rice" offers a raw and genuine portrayal of an artist's quest for purpose and expression.

Through Nick's journey, we're invited to reflect on universal themes of grief, joy, resilience, and the relentless pursuit of one's passion. Spanning more than 70 years, this is more than just the story of a man preparing for a stage show—it's a chronicle of a life lived with deep humanity, filled with the triumphs and sorrows that make us all who we are.
